STAFF 1942

Class of 1942

In the fall of 1938 there were enrolled at Farm Life School 66 freshmen, 43 boys and 23 girls, who set sail on the red and white ship of "42" seeking the treasure "Education."

First came Registration Day. We were confused and a little "green" when it came to high school, though we had spent seven years sailing through elementary school.

The crew knew what a long and difficult voyage lay before them, but the dividends were worth it. Of course, the ship needed leaders, so Ruth Jordan and Archie Gray Wilson were elected skippers, and Miss Gibbs and Mrs. Joyner were selected as advisers.

The boys that were members of the Future Farmers of America gave a Father and Son Banquet. In a short while, the crew disbanded for vacation.

Then came the fall of '39, and we all gathered on the ship, and lifted anchor again. We were sophomores, and this year Hazel Forrest and Lloyd Chesson were elected pilots and Mr. Banks and Miss Rohr advisers. We didn't make a landing until we stopped to pay our respects to the Seniors with a theater party. Then came spring and the athletic tournament sponsored by the school.

And I will

And I will be a part of the world that is to come

And I will be a part of the world that is to come

And I will be a part of the world that is to come

And I will be

And I will be a part of the world that is to come

And I will be a part of the world that is to come

And I will be a part of the world that is to come

The contest lasted for several days, and we were the winners of the championship and were presented with a trophy. Soon each of us bid farewell to his shipmates and the ship was tied up until the coming fall, for vacation was here.

We had all looked forward to this year. We were now juniors. Hazel Forrest, Don White, and Ruth Jordan were elected to guide our ship for the first semester, and Archie G. Wilson, Jimmie Warren, and Hazel Forrest for the second. Miss Rohr was our adviser.

The first thing we did was to get our class rings. The winter months brought forth the junior play, Everybody's Crazy Now, and the following spring brought forth the Junior-Senior banquet in red, white, and blue. This was a great success.

Once again came the Field Day tournament, and again we were victorious over our opponents and won another trophy. Thus ended our junior year.

It was the fall of '41, and once again we gathered on our ship, the "F.L.S." Graduation lay just eight months away, for we were now seniors. There were only 42 enrolled. The decrease in the enrollment of the 66 beginning freshmen was due to two things---laziness and marriage.

This year Jimmie Warren was elected our captain and Charlie Ipock, Ruth Jordan, and Dorothy Smith were mates. Miss Rohr was once again our adviser.

There were three big events in the fall. First, there was senior day at U.N.C. with a football game in the afternoon. Next came senior day at N.C. State, and last there was the Sophomore-Senior Halloween Party.

The winter months brought forth the Senior Class play, Meet the Folks.

In the spring came the Junior-Senior banquet. The juniors invited us to come aboard the ship where the banquet was being given while sailing under the rainbow.

A week later the Woman's Betterment paid their respects to the seniors with a reception.

Three days later came the Alumni banquet and dance. All the seniors were there, dining and mingling with the Alumni of F.L.S. And on Friday, May 1, the class of 1942 graduated from Farm Life School.

DEBATING

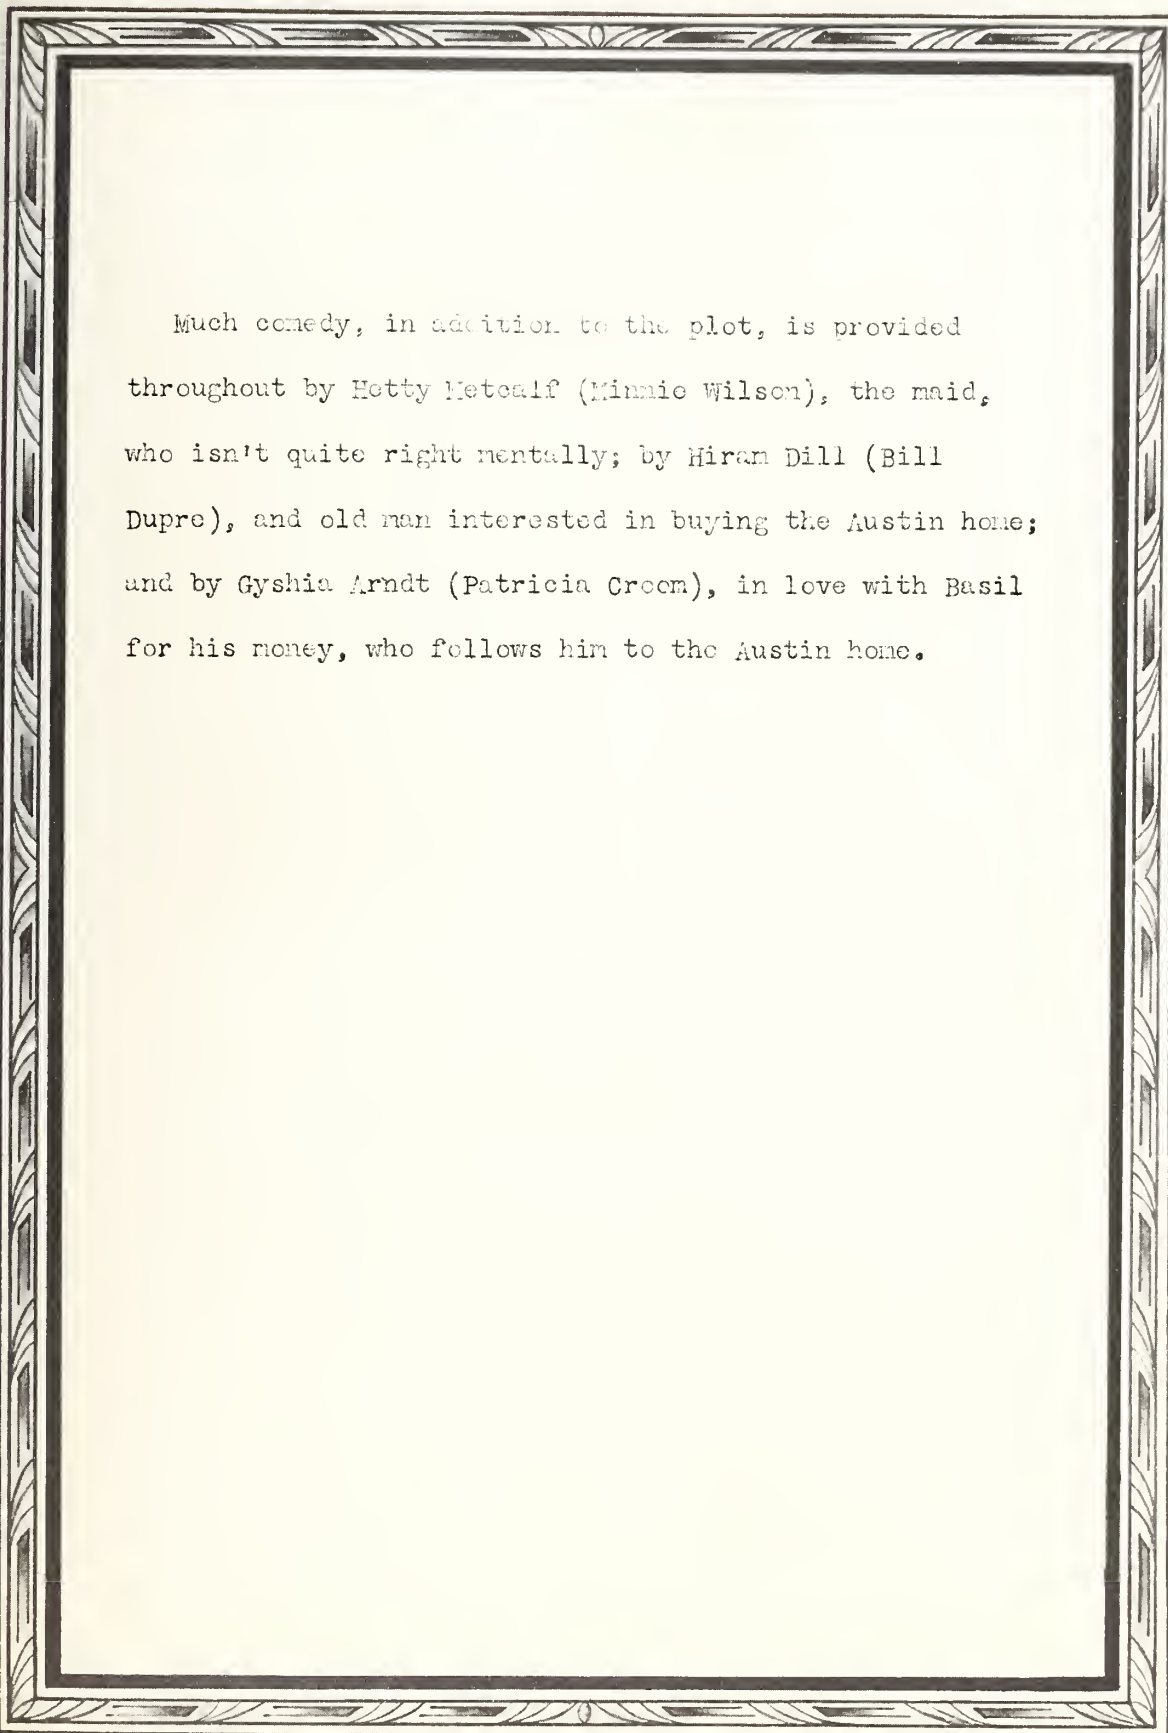

The debating teams composed of Ruth Jordan and Lloyd Chesson, affirmative, and Leona Miller and Margaret Ferebee, negative, met an affirmative team from Alliance High School and a negative team from Dover High School, on the question, "Resolved, that the nations of the western hemisphere should form a union." The affirmative won a 3-0 decision over Dover, and the negative lost a 2-1 decision to Alliance.

"Everybody's Crazy Now"

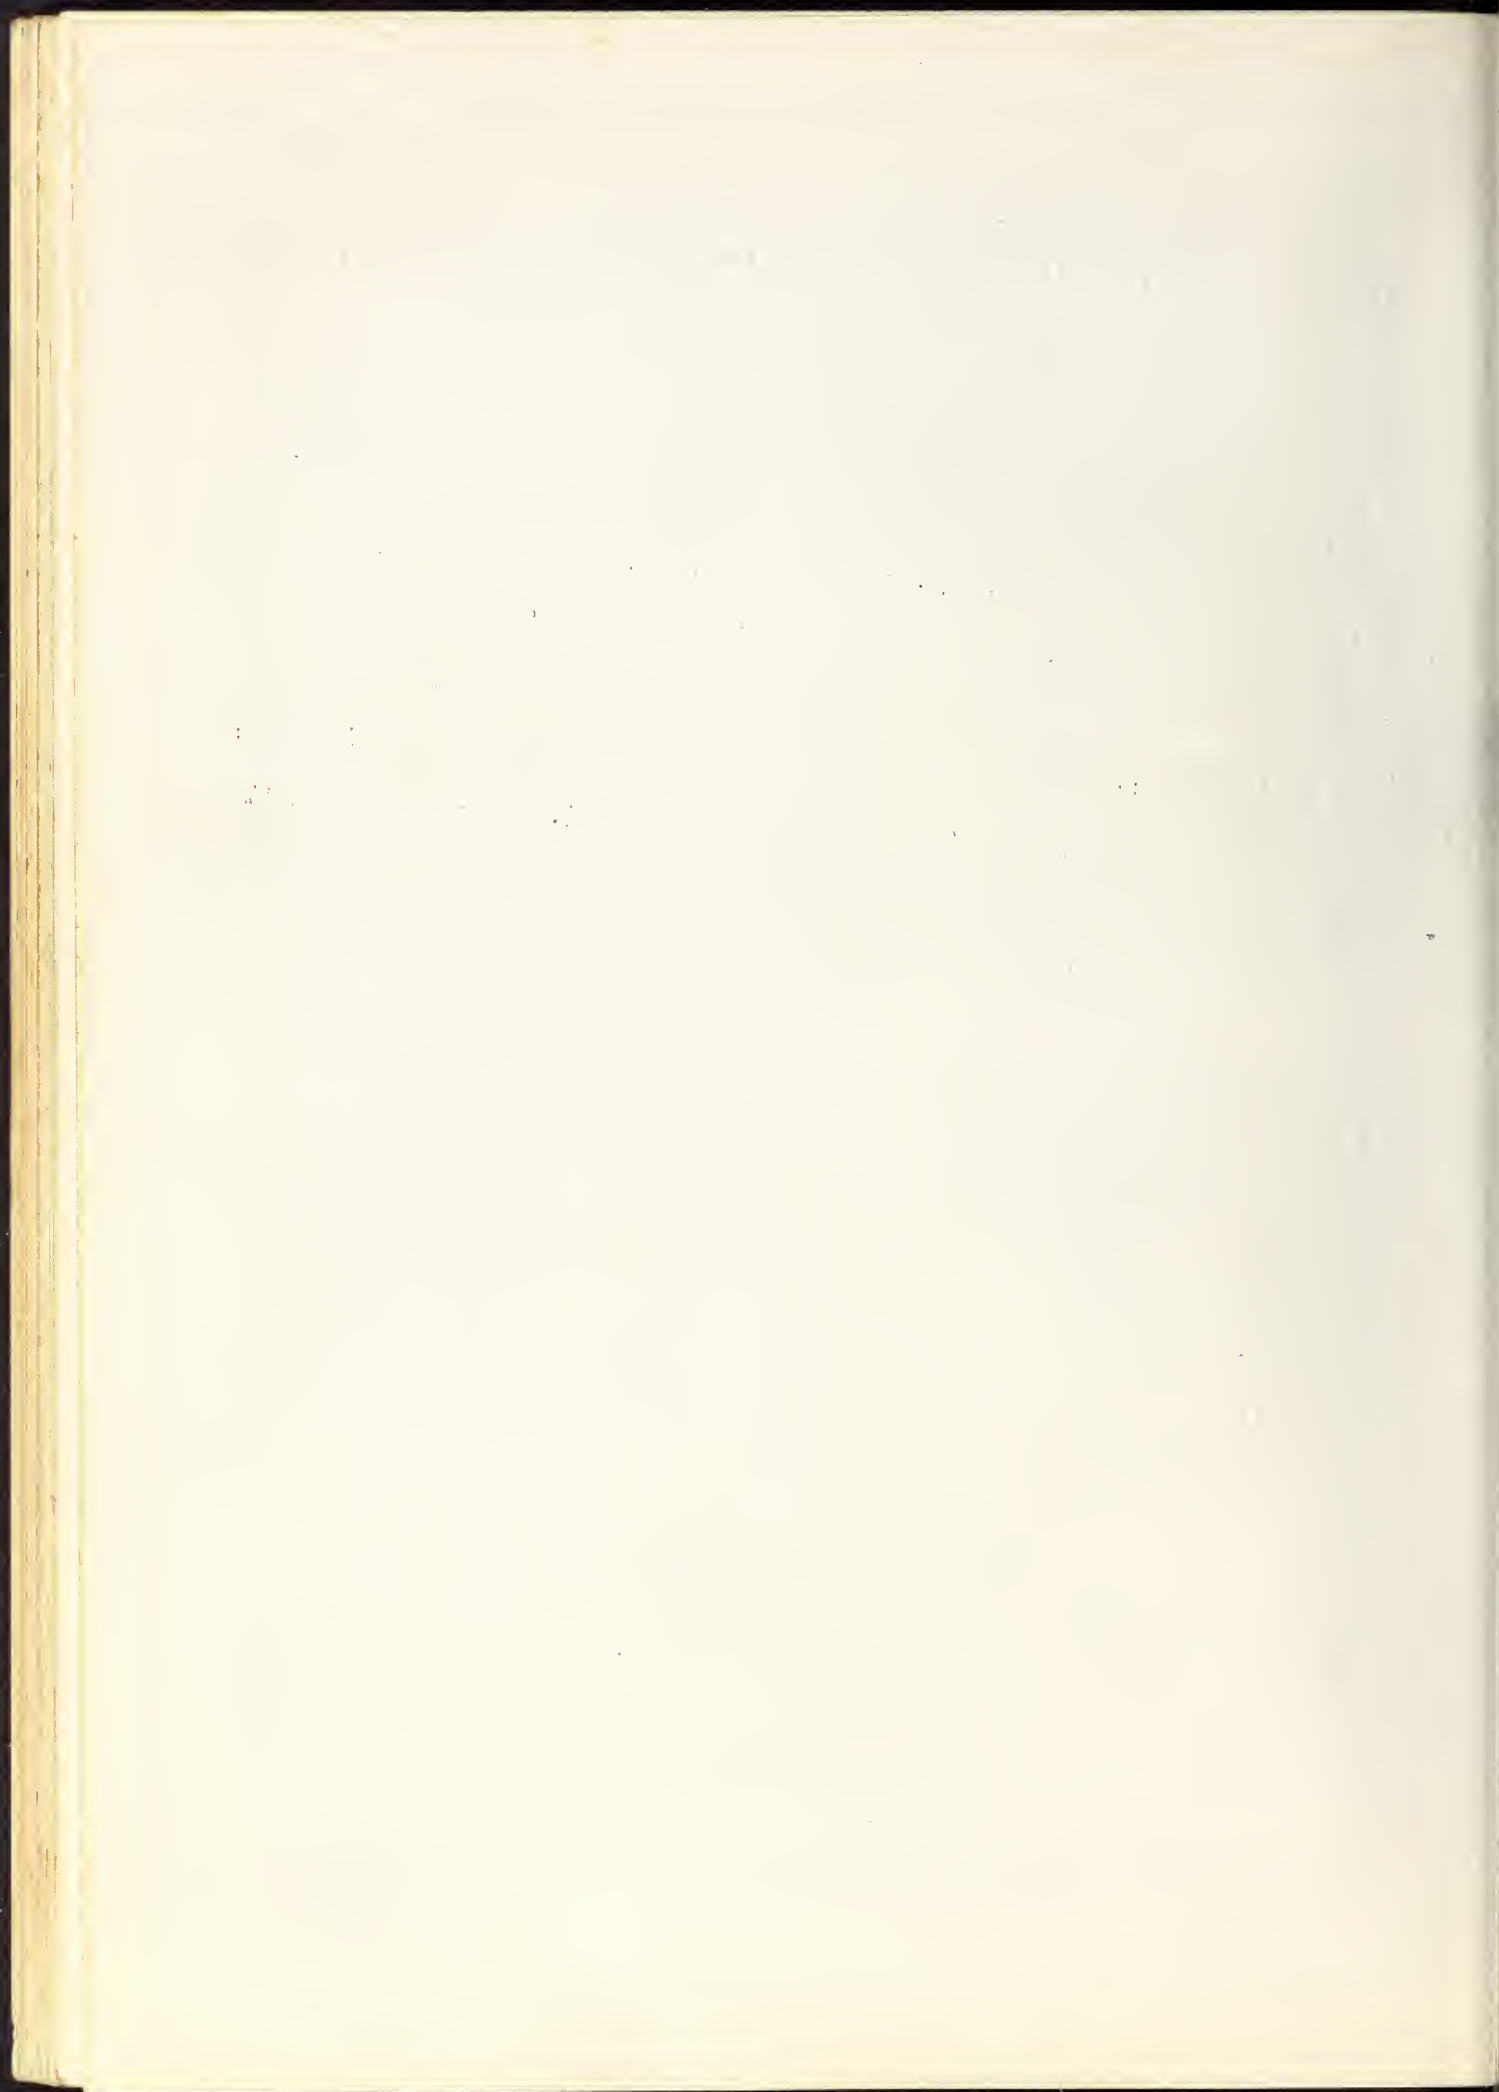

In March, 1941, the Class of '42 as Juniors selected for their play "Everybody's Crazy Now," in which Dorothy Smith and Jimmie Warren were cast in the leading roles.

June Austin (Dorothy) has returned home from finishing school infatuated with an author she has never seen, but whose books she has read, to find that her mother, (Ruth Jordan), a widow, must either take in boarders or sell their beautiful home. She has nothing to do with her former boyhood sweetheart, Greg Beecher (Jimmie Warren), who then seeks the aid of June's friend, Nan York (Hazel Forrest) to make June jealous. Stan Barbour (Eugene Smith), in love with Nan, doesn't care for this set-up at all, but finally agrees to it and aids in the hiring of a gigolo, Lee Tyson (Charlie Ipock), to impersonate the author.

Arriving on the scene at the same time, however, is the real author, Basil Lindsay (Lenwood Lewis), who is really an old friend of June's mother. The situation is finally straightened out when June finds that Basil is not only too old, but is also interested in her mother, and decides that Greg is a fine person, after all.

Much comedy, in addition to the plot, is provided throughout by Hetty Metcalf (Minnie Wilson), the maid, who isn't quite right mentally; by Hiram Dill (Bill Dupre), and old man interested in buying the Austin home; and by Gyshia Arndt (Patricia Croom), in love with Basil for his money, who follows him to the Austin home.

"Who Gets The Car Tonight?"

"Who Gets The Car Tonight?" was the one-act comedy entered in the State Dramatic Contest in the spring of 1941. The elimination contest for all Craven County schools was held in New Bern on Friday, March 1. "Who Gets The Car Tonight?", directed by Miss Rohr, was awarded second place.

It was the Jones family who were in a turmoil about the family car. Mrs. Jones (Eugene Duboise) wanted to go to a party. Mr. Jones (Fred Brinson) wanted to stay at home. Mary (Margaret Ferebee) wanted the car for her date with Jack (Lenwood Lewis), while Paul (Jimmie Warren) had meant all along to have it for his. This scrambled situation wasn't improved when Dad suddenly went old-time-parent on them and told Mary and Paul that they'd been staying out too late and driving too far and too fast and that they couldn't have the car. He was even willing to break down and go to the party himself. That one night Dad would drive the car. Though Mary wheedled and Paul bribed, Dad stuck to his ruling until he, too, was denied the use of the car, so that nobody got it in the end.

"Meet The Folks"

In the fall of 1941 the Senior Class presented a three act comedy, "Meet Tho Folks," a hilarious farce concerning the family right next door. There live Pa and Ma Smith (Lenwood Lewis and Nathalea Cleve), their effervescent son, James (Jirnie Warren), and their daughter, Mary Jane (Ruth Jordan). James has arrived at that profound stage of life when he is about to make his first public speech. He has rehearsed and rehearsed his appearance as President of the Young People's Club. It is his big opportunity to "show off" for his girl friend, Jewel (Marie Gaskins) and the rest of his gang. But alas! James' new suit arrives from the tailor; it is much too large; he suddenly comes down with a sore throat; and then, to top things off, the gan arrives too soon.

With them comes a new neighbor, Hedy Harrington (Martha Bland). James, immediately smitten by Hedy, is overheard by the maid, Parker (Minnie Wilson), making up poetry. Parker takes pity on James and gives him much advice on how to win a girl's affections. James goes about the task of putting Parker's advice to work-- practicing first on the other girls, Jewel and Marta (Maggie Willis), before trying it on Hedy. Pa and Ma have been called away on account of sickness, and James has the run of the house. He then goes about the business of holding the meeting of the club. But his big moment turns into a veritable rout when he is afflicted with trousers trouble -- they won't stay up -- well, hardly; and when Chuck (Lloyd Chesson), who is only a Vice President, steals his speech.

James imparts Parker's timely advice on love-making to Chuck, Harold (F. A. Williams), and Gilly (Charlie Ipock), but when they, too, try out the system, they encounter disastrous results and determine to make James pay for it. A free for all results, terminated by the return of Pa and Ma. All ends well, when explanations are made and it is learned that Hedy is not only engaged, but that she's too old anyway -- nineteen!

"The Spanish Onion"

This spring the Class of '43 presented a three-act comedy, "The Spanish Onion," with Evelyn Purser, as Delight Townsend, in the leading role. This play also was directed by Miss Rohr.

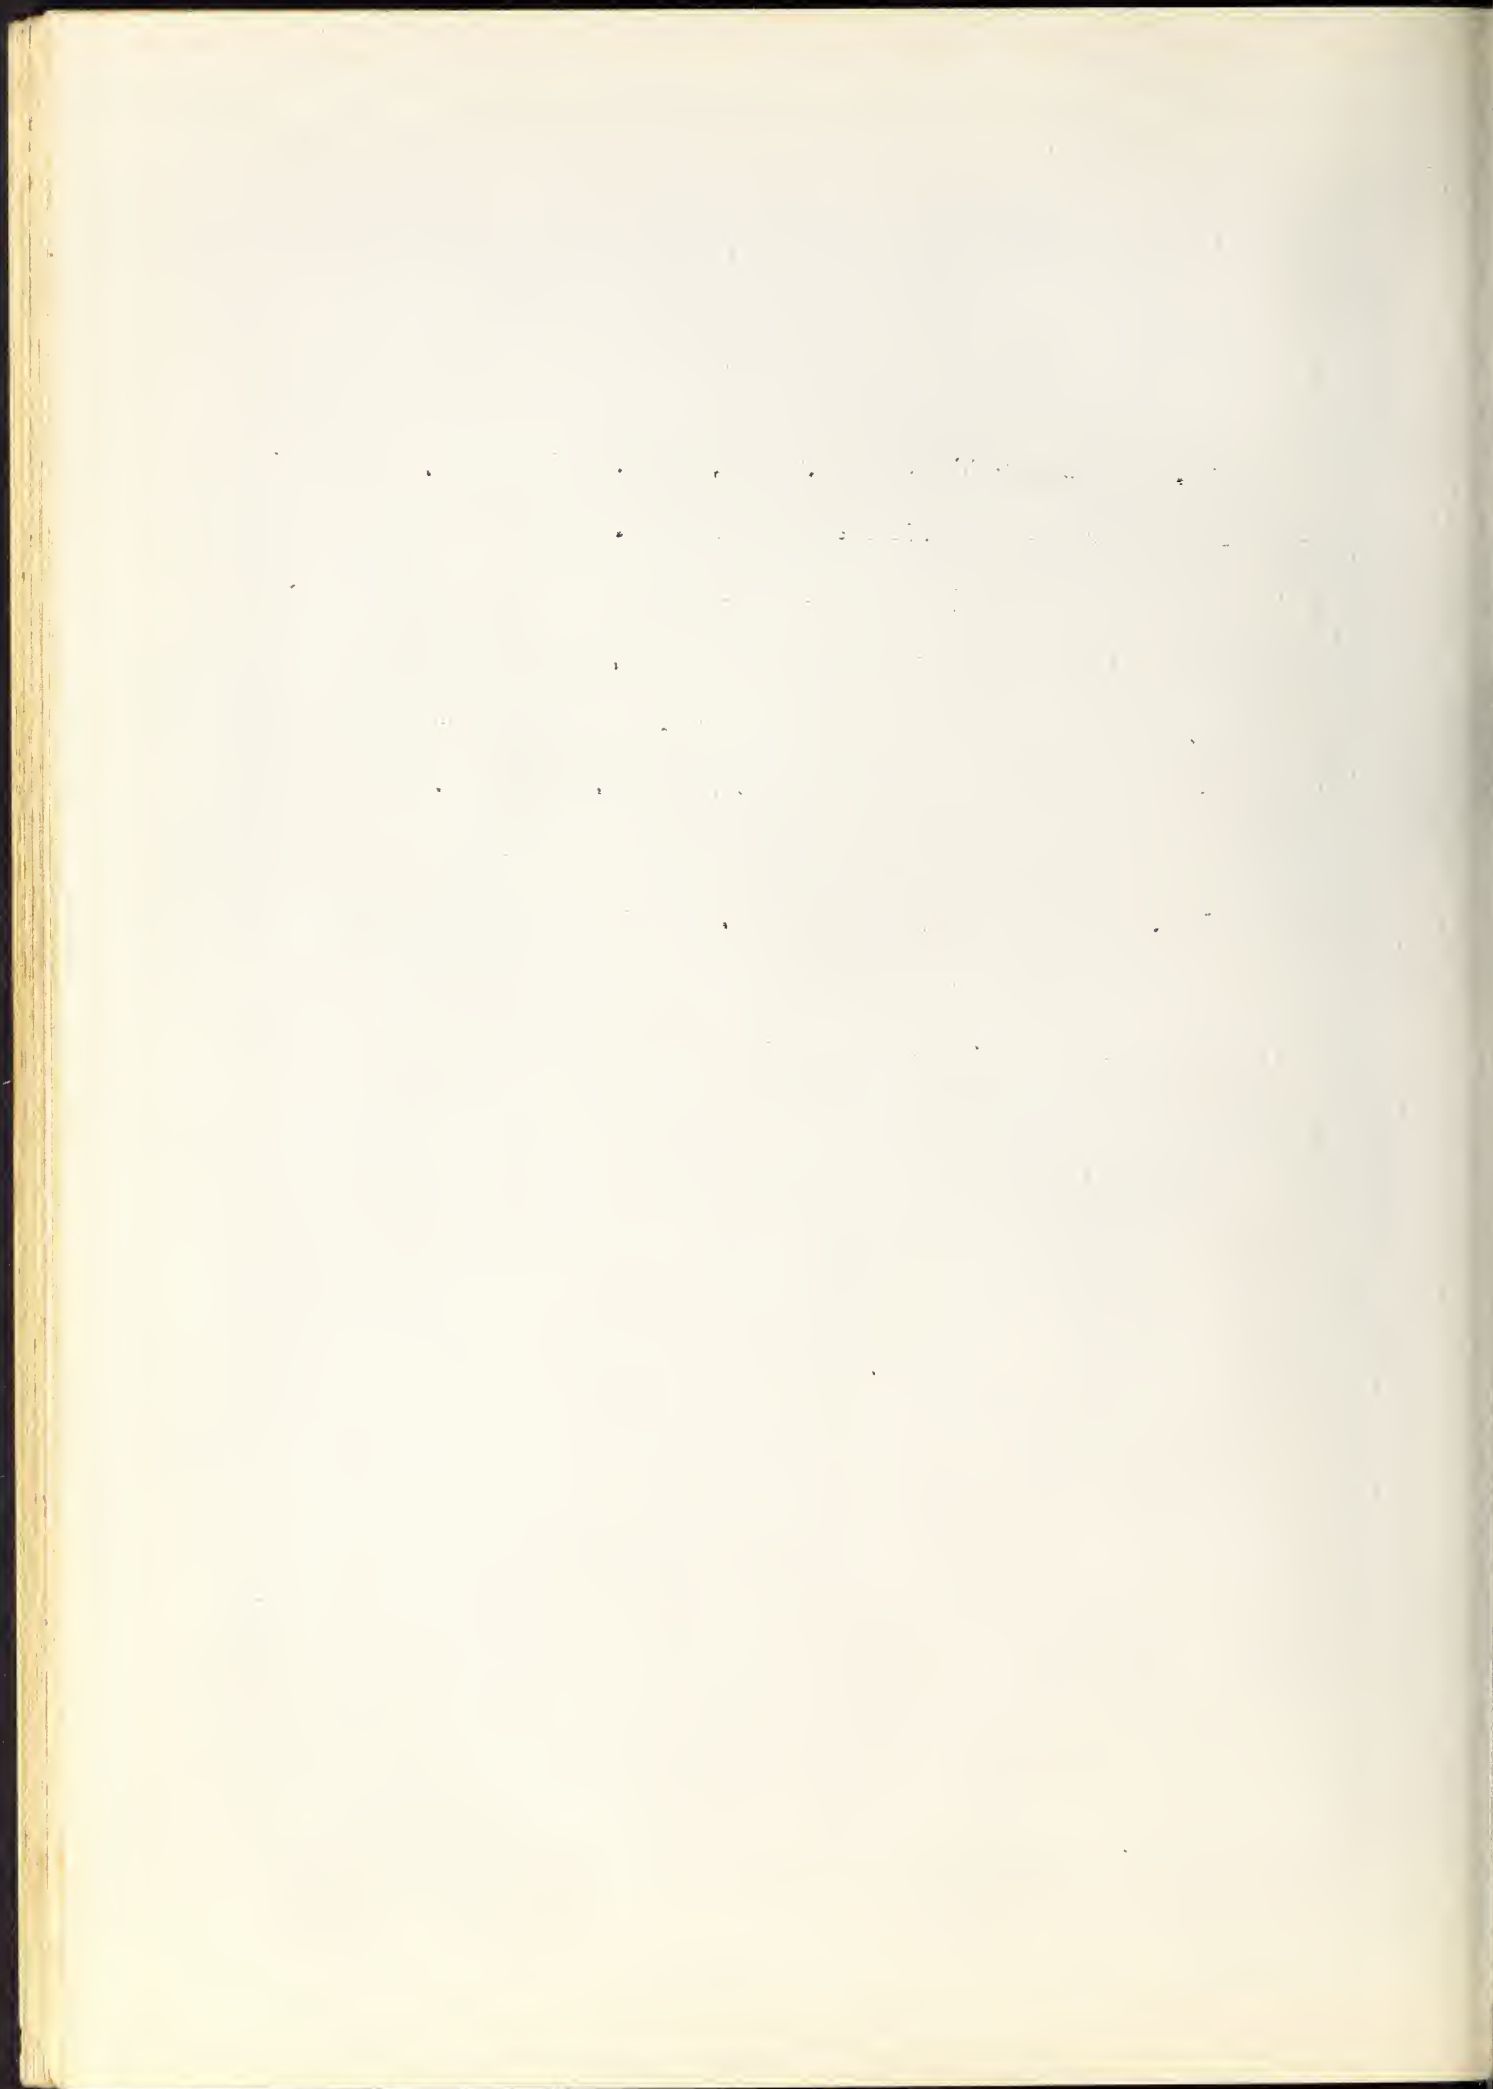

Delight, the "It" girl on the Fairhave College campus, to get a bit of pin money, decides to sell her dates to less popular coeds: the shy, stammering Cynthia Reed (Margaret Ferebee); Minnie Ross (Lillian Everette), other wise known as Minnie the Fish; and Jane Post (Dorothy Rae Clark), who just loves to dance, but can't. The boys -- Freshman Polly Carter (James Ray Croom); Roy Campbell (Roger Ipock); Walter Gordon (Joe Bright); Pinky Rollins (Vernon Norman); and Earl Walton (Jerome Lancaster) -- all of them object. But Delight overrules the objections by the simple expedient of becoming engaged to each one.

When they discover this little trick, they set out to get some revenge and to teach Delight a lesson. They plan an impersonation of Ramon Cortez (F. A. Williams), the gay cavalier and heartbreaker from Spain, who was supposed to be visiting the President's wife (Catherine Williams), and when Delight fall, hook, line, and sinker, THEY plan an expose that will leave her flat.

But when Mrs. Brink (Mary Elizabeth Roach), the washer woman who is supposed to expose Ramon, comes in to do so, there is no exposing to be done. Ramon Cortez is being impersonated by Ramon Cortez himself. Delight, considerable embarrassed and upset when she discovers the boys' plot, is quite happy in the end, after apologies are said all around, when she discovers that the dashing Ramon has decided to remain at Fairhaven as a student.

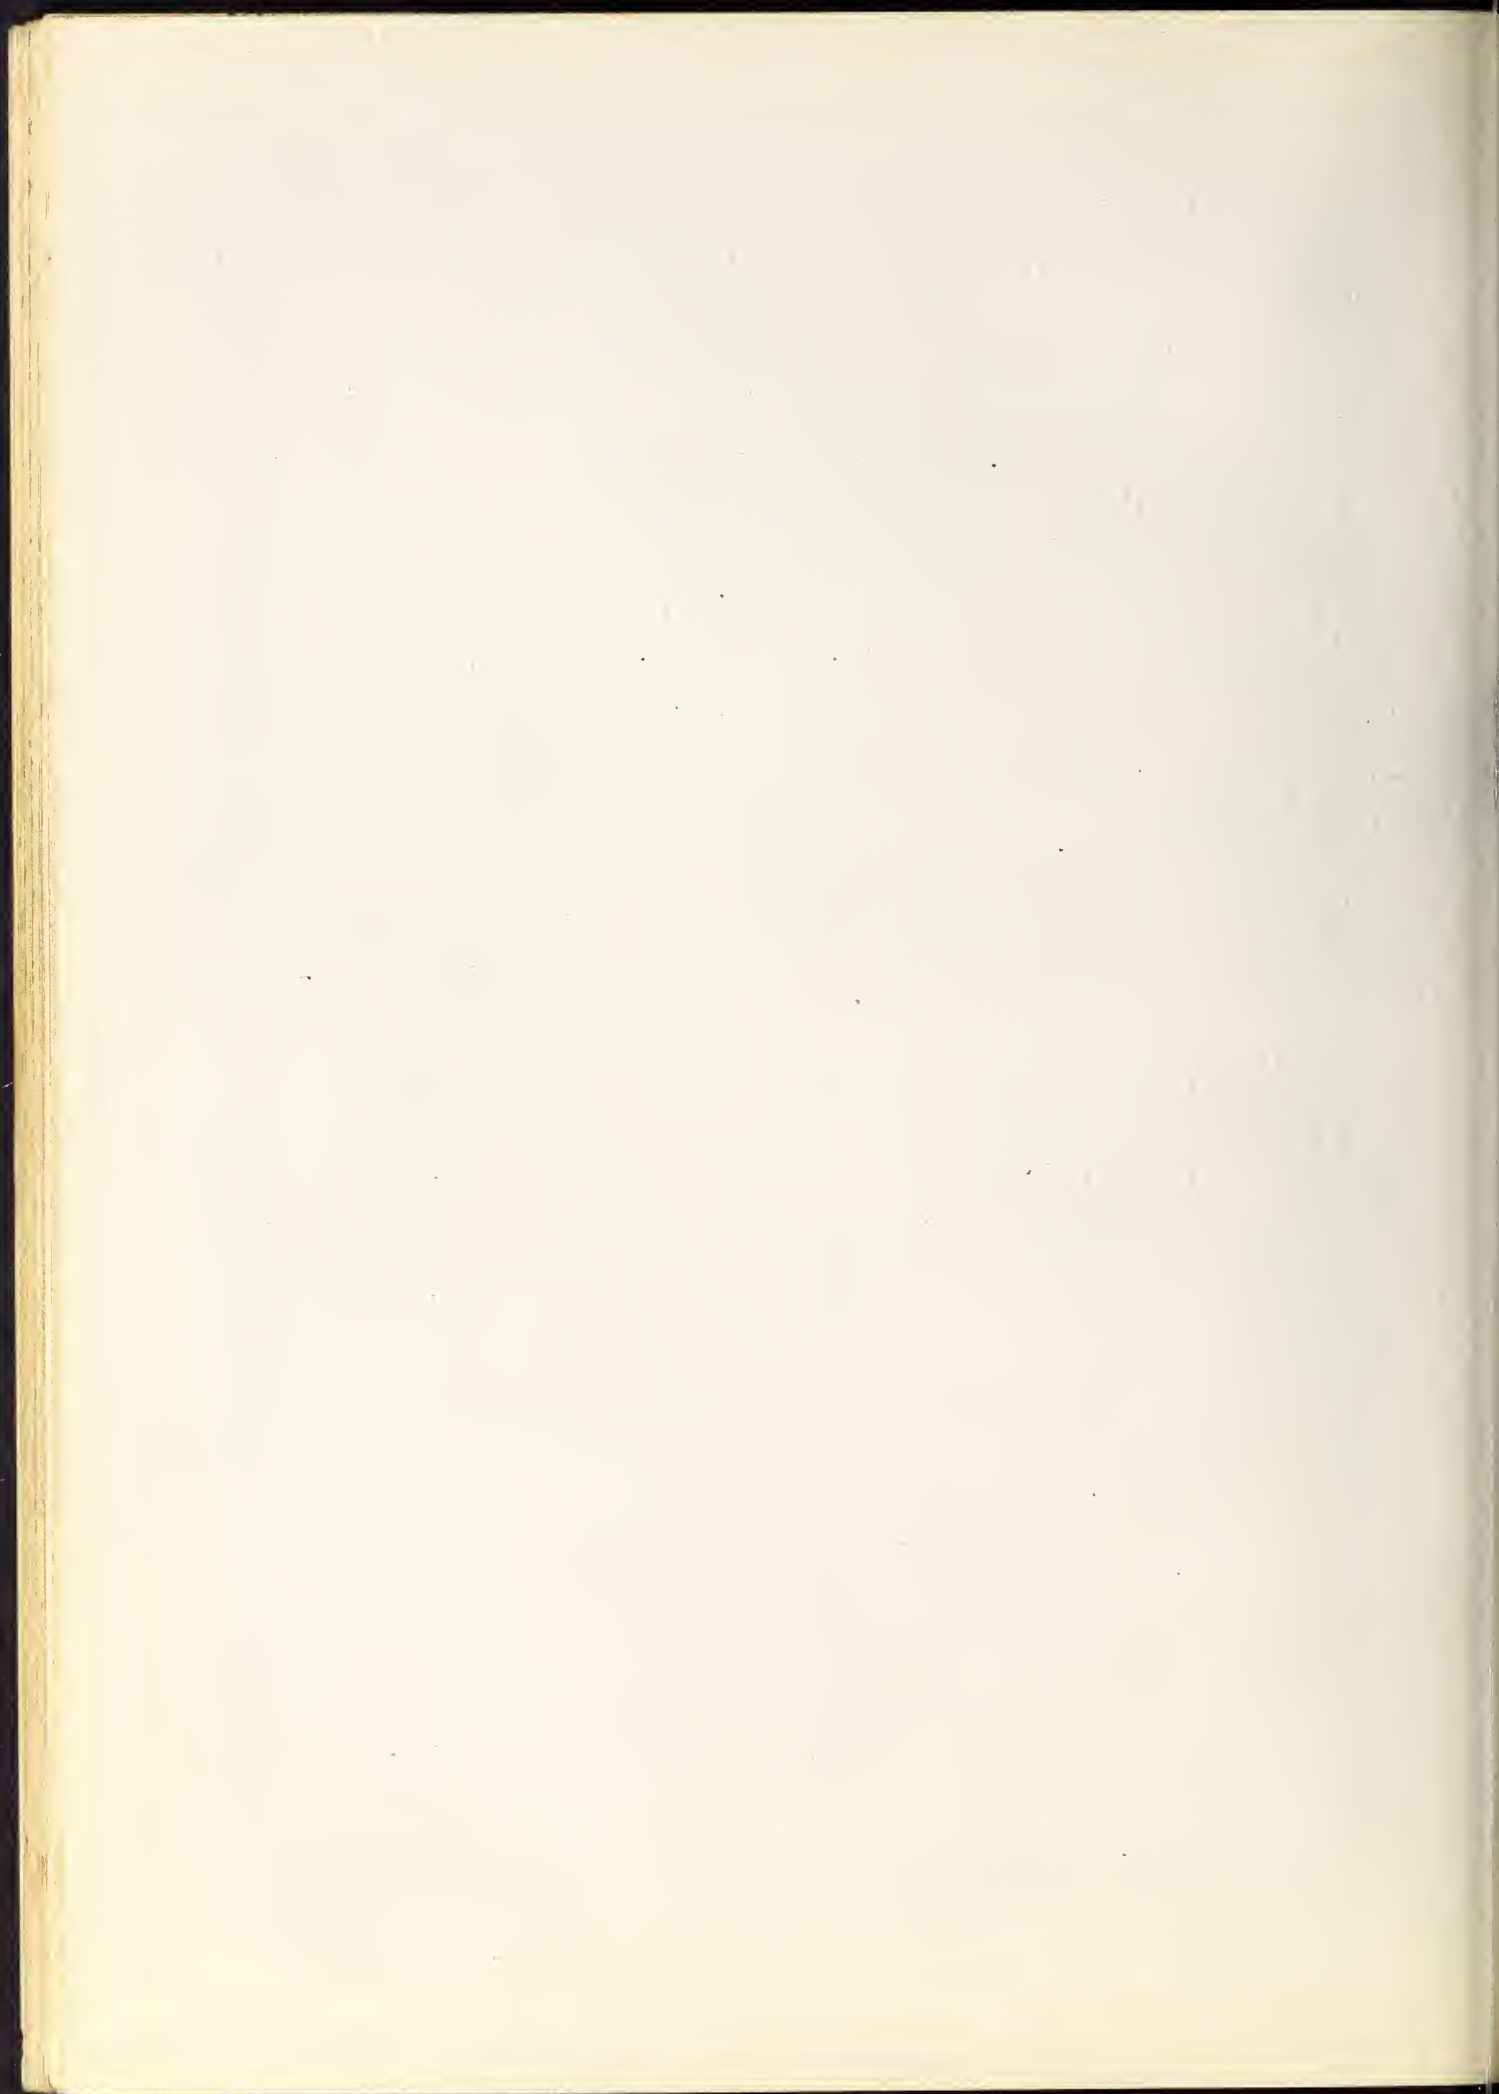

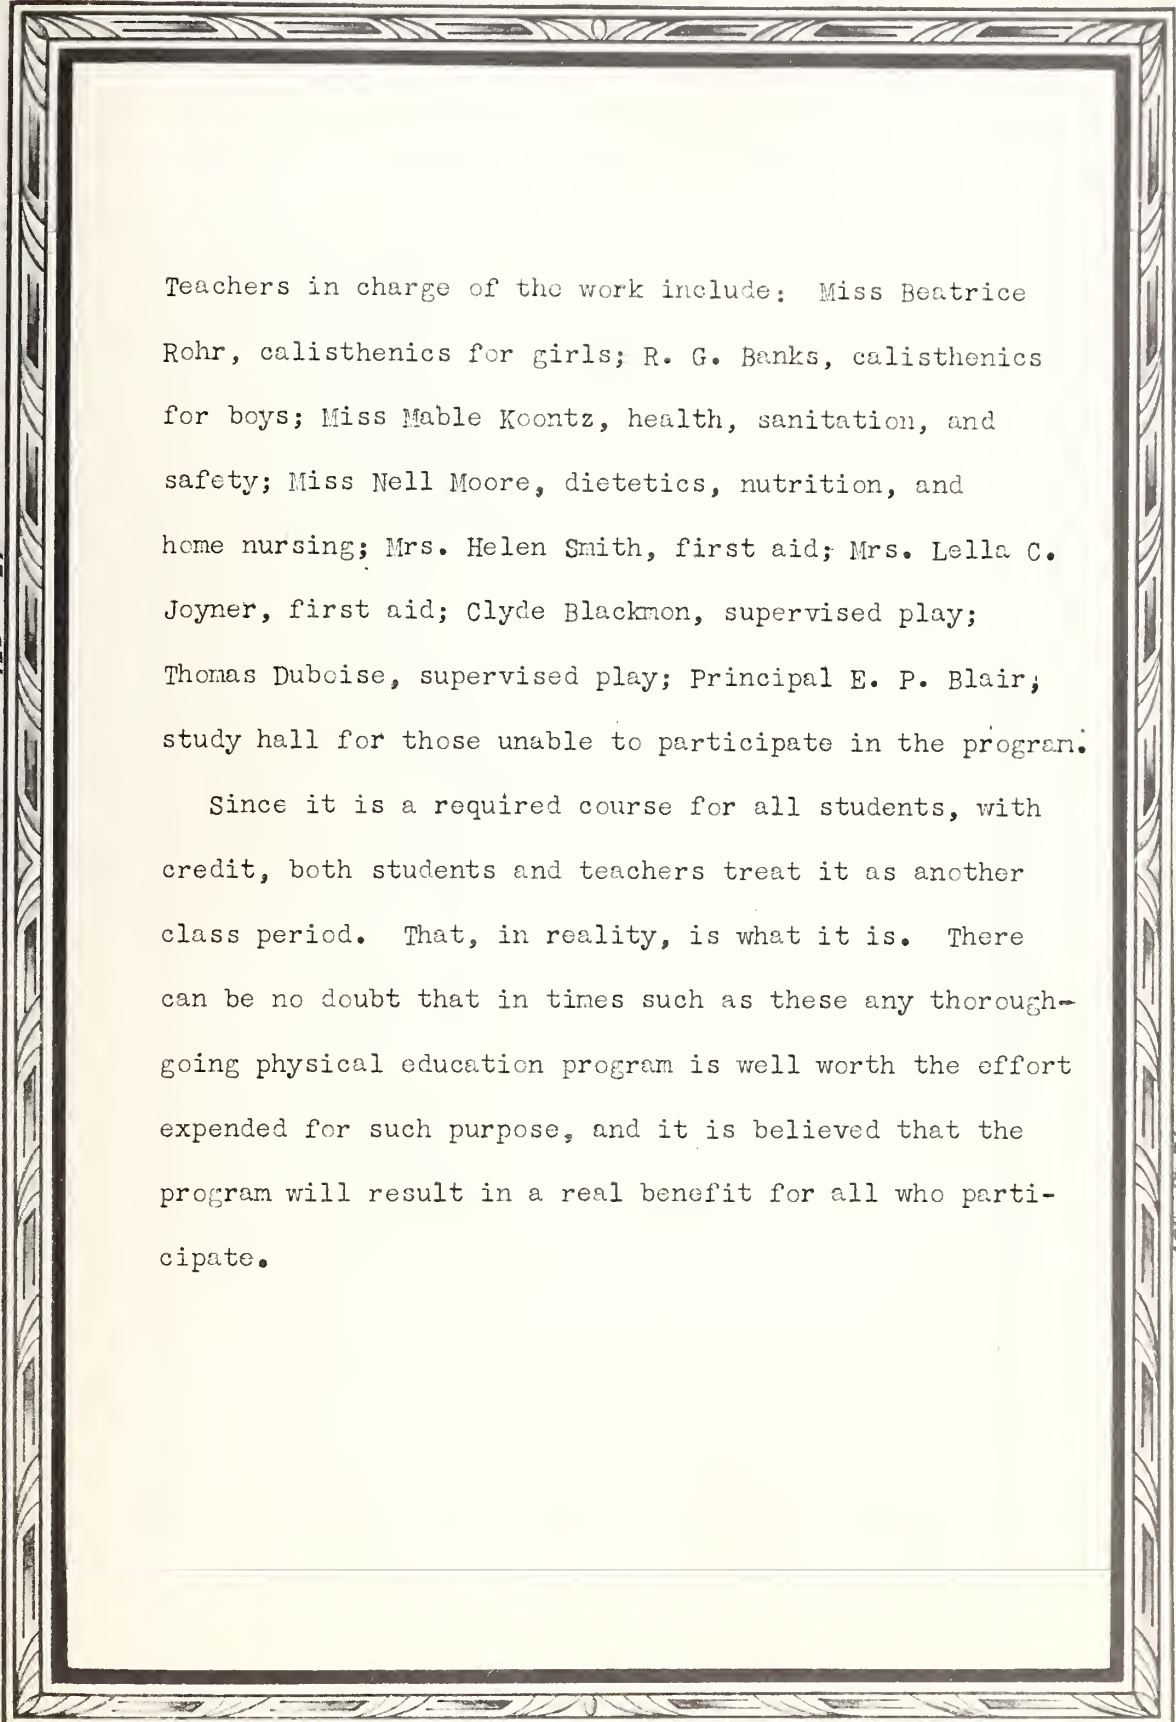

Physical Education

In keeping with the requirements set up by the State Department, the Farm Life School has worked out a program of physical education which effects every student enrolled in the high school. The program embraces calisthenics; health, sanitation, and safety; dietetics, nutrition, and home nursing; first aid; and supervised play; and the participation of all pupils is required.

The student body composed of some 200 students has a 55 minute course each day in each of the subjects mentioned above. This is accomplished by dividing the entire student body into groups of not more than 17 to 22 students. Each group, by the end of the week, has met its five required classes. It has meant a good deal of preparatory work and extra teaching on the part of every member of the faculty, but each of the teachers has cooperated and is working hard for the success of the program.

One-half unit credit is given each student doing satisfactory work in the subjects. Despite the fact that boys are taking dietetics and nutrition under the home economics teacher, they seem to enjoy the course.

Teachers in charge of the work include: Miss Beatrice Rohr, calisthenics for girls; R. G. Banks, calisthenics for boys; Miss Mable Koontz, health, sanitation, and safety; Miss Nell Moore, dietetics, nutrition, and home nursing; Mrs. Helen Smith, first aid; Mrs. Lella C. Joyner, first aid; Clyde Blackmon, supervised play; Thomas Duboise, supervised play; Principal E. P. Blair; study hall for those unable to participate in the program.

Since it is a required course for all students, with credit, both students and teachers treat it as another class period. That, in reality, is what it is. There can be no doubt that in times such as these any thoroughgoing physical education program is well worth the effort expended for such purpose, and it is believed that the program will result in a real benefit for all who participate.

Home Economics Department

In 1916 and the years immediately following, the home economics department of Farm Life School consisted of a foods lab in the basement of the teacherage, then used as a dormitory for students, and a clothing lab.

Since then, under the leadership of Miss Horton and Mrs. Biddle, the apartment was moved to the first floor. Partitions were taken down, walls painted, curtains made, chairs covered, tables built and painted, shelves constructed, what-nots made of specks, gourds decorated. These and other improvements resulted in a three year vocational home economics department.

The department now consists of six rooms. The living room is furnished with a Duncan Phyfe sofa; three rocking chairs covered by the girls; a Duncan Phyfe coffee table; three book cases; two window seats; a table and a stool. Next there is the clothing lab consisting of seven sewing machines, filing cabinet, one long table, a blackboard, and twenty four chairs. The den, our most attractive room, is very cleverly done in Mexican style, accentuated by pottery, curtains, tapestry, lamp, waste basket, and curtain pull. The room is furnished with a day bed made of an old cot re-finished and covered with burlap, two rocking chairs, two window seats, three tables, a desk, and a footstool.

Our foods lab has one electric and four oil stoves, one single and two double cabinets, five garbage cans, two sinks, one waste basket, a refrigerator, three drop leaf tables, and one work table. Green and white curtains emphasize the green in the stoves and the green of the bulletin boards. Between the foods lab and the dining room there is an interesting arrangement of shelves decorated with pieces of pottery which have been donated by various individuals. The dining room is decorated in orange and cream, and is equipped with one drop leaf table, a service wagon, four chairs, and one corner cupboard. At the windows are oiled silk curtains bordered with tiny orange flowers painted by the girls of 1940-1941. The bathroom contains a dressing table and a stool made from a wash stand and covered with oilcloth, a shower with curtains of oiled silk, and a chest of drawers for the towels, washcloths, sheets, and the other bed room accessories.

The sixth room is the bed room furnished with three maple beds built this year by the agriculture department, two tables, one chair, two lamps made of candle holders, one full length mirror, a dressing table, and a stool.

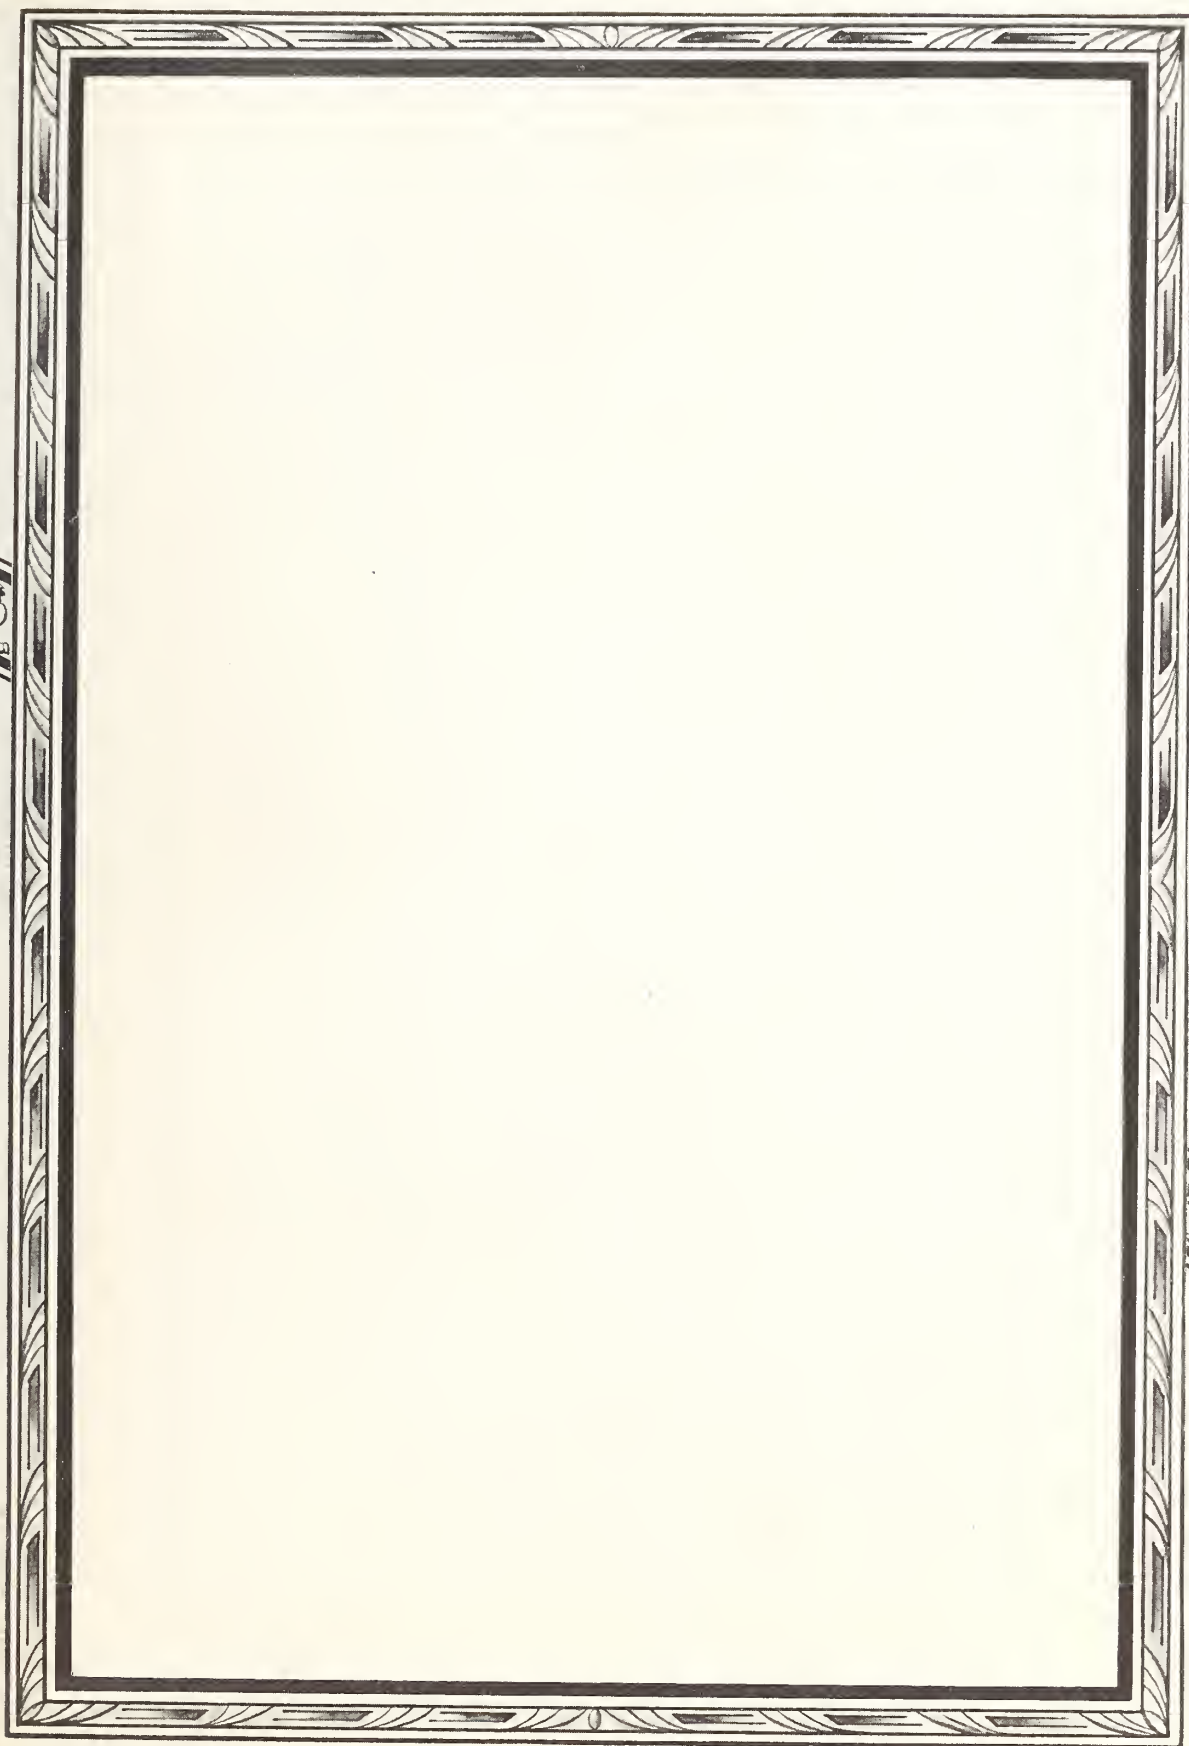

Twenty senior girls in groups of three and two had
